

Position Title: Assistant/Associate Professor of Urban Forest Management, Planning and Policy

APPOINTMENT

Nine-month tenure track appointment in the Urban Forestry Program, Division of Agricultural Sciences, College of Agricultural, Family and Consumer Sciences.

This is a 100% teaching position with opportunities for up to 50% research

AVAILABLE

Immediately

CLOSING DATE

October 20, 2001

or until suitable candidate is found.

QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. in forest management, planning and policy, natural resource management or closely related areas. Post Doctoral research experience highly desirable.

DESCRIPTION

This position involves teaching graduate and undergraduate courses in urban and community forestry, developing new courses and advising undergraduate and graduate students. The individual is expected to teach the following courses: urban forest management, urban forest measurements, urban forest planning and policy and more. The position requires an individual with interest in students and a willingness to be involved with all faculty responsibilities at the Program, College and University levels. Interaction with urban and community forestry and other natural resource agencies and organizations will be expected. The incumbent will be expected and encouraged to develop a strong research program focused on urban forest management, planning and policy to address the key priorities in urban and community forestry. Start-up support: is available, as well as on going strong institutional support.

APPLICATIONS

Interested persons should submit a letter of application, one-page statement of teaching philosophy and research interest; curriculum vitae; official university transcripts; and complete contact information for five references to:

Person to contact:

Dr. Daniel Collins, Interim Program Leader
Urban Forestry Program

Southern University, Baton Rouge, LA 708 13

Voice (225)-771-2262 ext. 268 225-771-2236 (fax)

dcollins164@home.com

Southern University and A&M College is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer.